Caritas Swaziland participates in Caritas Internationalis "HAART" campaign, Highly Active Anti-Retroviral Treatment, a campaign launched by Caritas in 2009 to provide medicines to keep HIV infected children healthy.

Training includes capacity-building to ensure institutions are in place to sustain development work, and monitoring and evaluation to improve projects. Loans and grants have helped the setting up of small enterprises. More immediate aid has included food and clothing.

Caritas Swaziland sees its main challenges in tackling the social inequalities that also contribute to poverty, and arresting the HIV infection rate.

Switzerland has 15 independent regional Caritas which implement social projects in their respective cantons. Together with Caritas Switzerland, the regional Caritas support the “Reduce poverty by half” action plan. Together with the network of regional Caritas, Caritas Switzerland provides specific assistance to disadvantaged people: families and single-parent families, the unemployed, and asylum seekers and refugees. Caritas Switzerland also organises appointments of volunteers for missions to support the terminally ill and mountain farmers.

The services provided by Caritas in Switzerland include: a debt advisory service; Caritas grocery stores, which sell common food items to people with low incomes; and a Culture Card, which enables people affected by poverty to attend cultural and sporting events at reduced prices.

In Syria, Caritas is operating in six regions: Damascus, Aleppo, Homs, the coastal region, Djézireh and Horan. The main aim of the mission is to offer food aid and rental assistance, as the war has deprived most Syrians of all sources of income. Another vital aspect of the Caritas mission is provision of medical support and distribution of non-food aid, such as blankets, clothing and other items as required.

In Damascus, Caritas Syria has several centres that look after displaced Syrians (and Iraqi refugees who are still present). It also distributes food parcels and provides medical treatment and preventive healthcare. In Aleppo, several centres have been spontaneously created or set up thanks to the initiative of a person or a local community. Small groups of volunteers look after schools and provide assistance and care. In Homs, despite the violent conflict, Caritas Syria is still managing to work via local Christian communities (Catholic and Orthodox) and serve people in need.

Caritas Tajikistan provides humanitarian relief to the poor and marginalized following emergency crises. When catastrophic floods and mudslides struck in 2010, destroying communication lines, bridges and over 2,000 homes leaving hundreds homeless, Caritas Tajikistan and Caritas agencies intervened to provide families food, cookware and fuel for stoves, blankets and pillows, mattresses and hygiene items. In addition, Caritas Tajikistan co-operated with Care International and Catholic Relief Services USA to provide winter assistance to the elderly, disabled and single mothers to survive the harsh, long Tajikistan winters. The provisions included clothing, sacks of flour, grains, pasta and cooking oil, along with thermos, hot-water bottles and candles.

Complementing Caritas Tajikistan emergency aid are long-term sustainable developmental programmes that provide sanitation facilities and water access to urban poor communities in Dushanbe, community education workshops and adult skills training in remote rural areas.

Caritas Tajikistan medical assistance programmes help children afflicted with illness, such as cancer and congenital abnormality and play a vital role providing medical equipment to children's hospitals.

Moreover, Caritas Italy and various government offices provided funding to open a medical dispensary to serve 30,000 people in a poor district.

Caritas Ukraine provides humanitarian assistance in the form of clothing, footwear and other necessary items to hundreds of people a week in Ukraine. Its winter assistance programme provided nearly 2,500 individuals assistance during the winters of 2012 and 2013, distributing clothing and fuel during the extended period of below average temperatures.

Caritas Ukraine's social service programmes have established rehabilitation centres for individuals struggling with substance abuse, they provide reintegration assistance for Ukrainian migrants, render direct assistance and seminars to prevent human trafficking, assist incarcerated individuals and provide home care to the elderly and those living with HIV/AIDS. Moreover, their soup kitchens at the regional Caritas organisations feed hundreds of disadvantaged individuals every week.

Caritas Ukraine recognises that investing in today's youth to become tomorrow's leaders is the key to making the nation's future prosperous. Through 5 social centres, they serve nearly 500 children and adolescents in crisis families. Their social centres also help children of labor migrants and ensures that pediatric cancer patients obtain treatment.

Caritas Uzbekistan began operations in 2002 but because of the government's strict regulation of religious groups, it was forced to act discreetly through small-scale efforts in local parishes. Caritas Uzbekistan's aim is to help people in a country where a fifth of the population lives on less than US$1 per day and 70 percent of people live in terrible rural poverty.

Caritas Uzbekistan works to improve access to affordable medicine for the elderly and children. It also operates a soup kitchen to provide weekly meals to the poor, sick and underprivileged and after-school programmes for children to help develop their social and sporting skills.

Caritas Uzbekistan has a main office in Tashkent and others in five parishes: Tashkent, Samarkand, Bukhara, Urgench and Fergana.

Intersos is an Italian NGO working in Yemen focusing its efforts on the most vulnerable of refugees including women (especially those who have been victims of abuse), those with physical and psychological disabilities, children without family, the elderly etc.

In Aden and Kharaz, Intersos gives legal counsel to victims of violence, particularly women who are victims of sexual violence and harassment. They offer both help in meeting material needs and psychological support. In cases where women are still under threat, they are guaranteed secure accommodation within the areas of residence. In the city of Sana'a, Intersos also runs a safe house for women and children victims or potential victims of abuse. With the aim to promote integration and self sustenance of refugees living in Yemen, Intersos tries to find possibilities of integration into the local labor market. Young women and men are placed in vocational training courses which provide theoretical and practical training. The practical training is sometimes transformed into opportunities of access to a real job.
